IN MEMORY OF WILMER "VINEGAR BEND" MIZELL

SPEECH OF

HON. MICHAEL G. OXLEY

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Wednesday, February 24, 1999

Mr. OXLEY. Mr. Speaker, I'd like to offer a tip of the old baseball cap to a great team player—Wilmer Mizell.

I was saddened to learn of Wilmer's death this past Sunday at the age of 68. It's appropriate that Congress put its appreciation of one of its most genial Members in the record books.

I first came across Wilmer Mizell not as a Congressman from North Carolina, but as a cagey major league pitcher known as "Vinegar Bend" on his baseball cards. Truly the kind of great baseball nickname I fondly remember from my boyhood in the 1950's.

Anyway, I was a 14-year-old fan when I met Wilmer and some of his fellow St. Louis Cardinals in Milwaukee. He gave me his autograph—in fact, I still treasure those Cardinal autographs today—and tickets to the game. That's when ballplayers really were heroes to their fans, and when baseball was the indisputable National Pastime.

You'll find Wilmer Mizell permanently listed in the baseball fan's bible, the Encyclopedia of Baseball. He pitched for the Cardinals, the Pittsburgh Pirates, and the New York Mets. He was a key addition for the Pirates in 1960, when Pittsburgh capped an improbable World Series victory over the Yankees on Bill Mazeroski's stunning home run. Wilmer then performed the ultimate sacrifice on behalf of the grand old game by toiling for the expansion Mets.

After a few years, Wilmer Mizell broke into another exclusive lineup. He was elected as a Congressman from North Carolina. Wilmer served his district with distinction from 1968 to 1974. He would later serve in the Commerce Department under President Ford and in the Agriculture Department under President Reagan. His easy-going style masked a savvy mind.

When I was a boy, I couldn't have imagined that I would meet Wilmer Mizell on the baseball field again  only this time, as a Congressman. For years, Wilmer was a fixture at the congressional baseball game. As a long-time player, I can't tell you how much it meant to have Wilmer at practice and at the game itself. One of my great regrets in my first year as manager of the Republican team is that Wilmer won't be there to share his advice, wisdom, and wit.

But we will all remember Wilmer Mizell when we rise for the National Anthem before the game this June. He was the essence of two traits common to success in baseball and politics: good-hearted competition and real camaraderie. We'll miss this great ballplayer, great American, and truly good friend.

TRIBUTE TO CAPE AND ISLANDS
EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICES

HON. WILLIAM D. DELAHUNT

OF MASSACHUSETTS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, February 25, 1999

Mr. DELAHUNT. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to recognize the important work of Cape and Islands Emergency Medical Services on the occasion of its twenty-fifth anniversary on February 25, 1999.

The Cape and Islands Emergency Medical Services system was created in 1974 by a group of physicians, fire fighters and chiefs, local officials and educators who recognized the need to develop a comprehensive paramedic training program and who had the vision to create a system to provide advanced life support ambulance services to the people of the Cape and Islands.

Today, Cape and Islands EMS provides these comprehensive services to 26 towns, 29 provider agencies, 5 hospitals and a fluctuating population of 200,000 in the winter months and over 1,000,000 during the summer.

Cape and Islands EMS has made significant contributions to the delivery of health care on Cape Cod, Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket through education, medical direction and oversight, communications and administrative services for EMS providers.

After twenty-five years, Cape and Islands EMS has become a leader in the delivery of high-quality emergency medical services. Its team has set a high standard of excellence, always striving to exceed the needs and expectations of the Cape and Islands medical community as well as area residents.

Today, I ask my colleagues to join me in congratulating the Cape and Islands EMS System for twenty-five years of outstanding service.
